For the earth's ecosystem and human communities progress

Geoprogress is not-for-profit organisation founded in 2011 by several professors from Italian universities and scientific institutions with the aim at fostering knowledge, empowering humanity, and improving the quality of human resources, territories and Earth's ecosystem. Among the activities Geoprogress is carrying out according to its mission, (www.geoprogress.eu), there is the publication of some journals, at national and international level, and other kinds of writings, all of which are open access.

Donations to Geoprogress for supporting its editorial and solidarity activities

Consistently with the association aims, this and other on line publications of Geoprogress are open access but they obviously have a cost. The same is true for initiatives concerning the protection of natural environments, landscape, cultural heritage, mainly for development cooperation programs in poor countries. For these reasons, we urge readers to make a donation to the Association and possibly join and make a personal contribution.
